PROFESSOR MEANY IS UNABLE TO COME

Program for Friday Morning Being Arranged by Committee.—Pioneers Will Be Guests.

Professor Edmond S. Meany of the University of Washington, who was invited to speak at the Normal school on state admission day, has wired that he will be unable to come. Judge George Turner of Spokane, one of the framers of the constitution, has likewise sent his regrets.

Efforts are being made by the committee, however, to obtain a speaker for Friday morning. Pioneers of this community, in accordance with a custom established several years ago, will be invited to attend the exercises. There are several in Cheney who have lived in the Inland Empire for nearly a half-century.

It is not likely that any program will be held Saturday night, November 11. Mrs. Hulscher, who has been planning an operetta for that evening, has announced that it will be postponed indefinitely. Whatever program is given on Saturday will be arranged in accordance with the wishes of the citizens of the town.

LIGHTS, COLOR AND JAZZ FOR THE MIXER

Everybody in School Will Be "Exposed" by Dagger and Shield.—Anaesthetic Dancing Billed.

Lights and color, quaint settings and gay tunes will set the pace on the program of the Dagger and Shield all-school mixer to be held in the Normal auditorium and gymnasium on Friday, December 15.

"See yourself as others see you," in the "Normal Revue," is another attraction of the program. Foibles unsuspected by their owners will be detected by Dagger and Shield "scouts" and mirrored in all their naive reality for everybody's benefit.

Musical comedy, "follies" as Bohemian as Washington Square or a "village" playhouse will enliven the evening with new and tuneful "pep."

"Anaesthetic" dancing, a variety unlike that seen at play hour or even the informal, will appear sketched among the scenes of the revue.

"Pierrot," of ancient stage tradition, will appear in one of his favorite roles in the quaint little phantasy, "Maker of Dreams," the feature of the evening's entertainment. Novel staging and lighting effects new to Normal school dramatics will be used in this production.

Ted Smith is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Assisting Mr. Smith are L. J. Neider and Ferdinand Ottomeier.

Glee Club Girls Appear

The Girls' Glee club made its first public appearance when the girls sang a four-part sacred selection in chapel Friday morning.

Attend Football Game

Members of the faculty and students of the Normal school who attended the W. S. C.-U. of W. football game at Pullman Saturday were: J. W. Hungate and family, Coach A. A. Eustis, the Misses Virginia Dickinson, Dorothy Dodds, Daphne Dodds, Marian Lawton, Pearl Dowd, Iris McDonald, Evelyn Bovee, June McChesney, Anna Scott, and Pugh and J. Orin Oliphant.

Start Tournament Soon

Challenge games to decide the winners of the girls' basketball tournament will begin Wednesday, November 8, and conclude before the Thanksgiving recess. The games will be played on regular practice nights. All eight teams will compete in the tournament.

SOULFUL-EYED GIRLS CENTER OF INTEREST

Decorations, after the mood of Halloween, created a festive atmosphere for the Normal informal Saturday evening.

Mademoiselle Faux Pas attended the function in her official capacity of society gossip and overheard the dean tell Mr. Craig that everybody was dancing remarkably well. That is, everyone seemed to be keeping the "requirements" well in mind, except one small maid whose dainty arm was wound tenaciously about the neck of her tall partner. But one glance from the dean—

Another soulful-eyed maiden was observed gazing rapturously into the apparently fascinating faces of her successive heroes of the evening, thus motivating interesting comment along the side lines.

The usual number of masculine wall flowers attended, of course, and two of these shy swains, lacking the courage to invite ladies, were seen frequently to edge away toward the punch bowl and to replenish themselves liberally with the kickless beverage.

Laudable efforts to appear à la the new long skirt mode were made by the "progressive" element of Normal society, but one of them frankly admits that it necessitates learning to dance all over again.

PICK FACULTY TO OBSERVE DANCES

Patrons and Patronesses for Winter Quarter Dances Announced by the Dean of Women.

Patrons and patronesses for the informal to be held during the winter quarter are as follows: L. V. Tyler, A. M. Shaffer, Mrs. Louise Anderson, Miss Myra Pannebaker, Miss Hazel Plympton, Miss Dorothy Dodds, Miss Daphne Dodds and Miss Marion Lawton.

The faculty members to be honored as patrons and patronesses for the winter quarter formal are: George E. Craig, W. E. Haeseler, J. Orin Oliphant, Miss Nettie Goodman, Miss Flora Davidson, Miss Mary Barton, Miss Elizabeth L. Martin, Miss Charlotte Lang and Miss Laura Loetscher.

ORGAN PLEDGES DUE ON NOV. 15

Pledges to the pipe organ fund, which were made last spring or summer, are due on November 15. Checks should be made payable to the Pipe Organ committee and mailed to J. Orin Oliphant, State Normal School, Cheney, Wash. It is requested that payment be made by check in order that the committee may be saved the trouble of mailing a receipt for each payment. Prompt attention to this notice will save the expense of mailing special notices. The campaign for the organ closes December 31.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION DAY WILL BE HELD NOVEMBER 14

Miss Elizabeth L. Martin

Miss Martin is sponsoring the geography club which is being organized this week. Faculty as well as students have been invited to join.

GIRLS WILL APPEAR IN COSTUME FESTIVAL

Costumes of "Other Days" And of Today Will Be Motif of Assembly Stunt.

Costumes of "other days" and of today will be the motif of an assembly stunt to be presented by the girls of the school on November 20 before the associated student body. Hazel Kidder, Isabelle Shanahan, Vera Thornley, Helen Buchanan, Estelle Humphries and Rosamond Matteson make up the committee in charge.

RIVAL TEAMS WILL MEET AGAIN TODAY

Spokane University and the Normal Will Play the Hardest Conference Game at Spokane.

Regardless of conference championships, regardless of past victories or defeats, "the game" of the season will be played this afternoon at Spokane between the Normal football team and the Spokane university team. Two teams, accompanied by Coach Eustis, will leave about noon today.

It is expected that many students of the Normal school will witness the annual clash between these rival teams today. It has become a tradition in the Normal school that Spokane university must always be defeated.

Comparative scores, if they mean anything, indicate that the Normal team will have a slight advantage.

START HOT NOON LUNCH

Seventy-Five Present at Opening Last Monday.—Work Started by Miss Fitzgerald in 1911.

The twelfth year in which hot lunches have been served in the Training school opened Monday noon with an attendance of 75, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Anderson of the domestic science department, assisted by Gladys Bach.

Children living at a distance, who bring their lunches, are served one hot dish at the noon hour. This system was started in 1911 by Miss Josephine Fitzgerald. Parents and friends of the children have cooperated with the school by donating all provisions used.

Committees From Senior Classes Will Make Canvass of Student Body on Tuesday, November 14.

Committees representing the three senior classes will start work on Tuesday, November 14, to obtain subscriptions for the Normal school annual. Before the day is ended it is believed that the required number, 400, will be sold. Half of the purchase price—$1.50—will be collected on that day.

Senior B's and Senior C's have joined the Senior A's in voting to support the annual, which makes the matter unanimous so far as the seniors are concerned. Action by the Senior B's was unanimous. The advanced students have also voted to support the annual, pledging one-half of the class dues in addition to subscriptions which will be taken.

Ann Scott, Hazel Kidder and Vivian McDonald will represent the Senior A's in the subscription campaign, while Hal Nourse, Lydia Raymond and Florence Brown will represent the Senior C's. Gertrude Fehmer, Dora Henning and Cora M. Holtman constitute the Senior B committee.

A contest among the various organizations of the school to determine which can sign up the greatest percentage of its membership has been suggested. Special recognition would be given the winning organization.

Prior to the opening of the subscription campaign on November 14 an "annual rally" will be held at the students' assembly. An opportunity will be given students at that time to ask questions regarding the details of the plan for financing the publication.

With reference to various comments made on the publication the following statement has been issued:

"Complaint has been voiced by several students that $3 is a great deal for one copy of an annual. It is more than would be charged if the student body was larger and a greater number of copies could be sold. However, it is the least price for which the annual can be financed.

"One point, apparently, has been overlooked by many students. That is that the $3 will cover all costs of making engravings. Heretofore students have been paying for special copies of the Journal and have also been paying special assessments in order to have cuts of their organization inserted. It has been carefully estimated that every bona fide organization in the school can be represented in the annual with a suitable cut with no cost to the organization save that of having the picture taken. This plan will insure complete representation of organizations and will greatly enhance the value of the annual as a school souvenir. It is planned to spend more than $400 for engravings for the book.

"Action taken by the various senior classes with respect to the Journal has been very favorable. It is believed that other classes will also give their support and that subscription day, November 14, will be entirely successful. At that time each student who signs for a copy will be expected to pay one-half of the purchase price, or $1.50. Unless sufficient money is obtained in advance to insure the success of the undertaking, nothing can be done."

Told Ghost Stories

Ghost stories were the chief amusement at a Halloween party held Monday evening at Monroe Hall. Senior Hall was invaded by the "ghosts," who later marched by the Apache club and through the school buildings.

Broad Mindedness

Broad mindedness, like charity, covers a multitude of sins. Violations of law and morality ranging from free love to anarchy are sanctioned by the broad minded. How easy it is to approve everything new and fantastic and pose as a person of liberal views! Abraham Lincoln, "with malice toward none, with charity for all," was narrow enough to oppose slavery. He might have said, "Every man has a right to his own opinion," and folded his hands. It is fine to be able to see the motives governing another's actions and to regard his actions in the kindest possible way, but it is not necessarily fine to condone a fault in another and think you are being broad minded by doing so. When broad mindedness reaches the point where it is merely following the course of least resistance, it is nothing more than a spineless excuse for neglecting duty.

COMMUNICATION

Why Be Beggars?

The Journal of last week contained the following: "A play hour to suit the needs of those students who do not dance will be arranged, provided enough interested persons sign up on the bulletin board."

Why should they who might want other forms of recreation have to sign up? Those who dance do not have to go to the bulletin board and display their names and wishes before the gaze of this august student body. Why should those who do not dance have to get down on their knees and beg for the social enjoyment they may crave? Have they not had to walk boldly into the business office and pay their hard cash, which is now being spent by the dancing crowd? Why should the non-dancers have to go to more trouble to secure entertainment than the dancers?

Complaint is made that last summer several efforts were made "for a non-dancing recreation hour, but not enough response came to make it worth while." Perhaps if non-dancing recreation were to be put on a par with dancing in the school, and those who wish to enjoy it not made beggars, it might be a success.

Why not make play hour the real thing and not a misnomer?

SALVAGE DEPARTMENT

Edited by
O. G. WHIZZ

Confined to the beaten paths of tradition, the ordinary journalist overlooks or discards much that is of vital interest to humanity. It is the purpose of the editor of this department to gather up the broken bits of news, weld them together and make them serve useful purposes. Motto: "What others discard we pick up."

Where We Stand

"Plans" are being made to eliminate the "air of mystery" that has hovered about so many stories that have appeared recently in our esteemed contemporary, the Journal, according to one "high" in Journal circles. We wish it understood that everything that appears in this column has a definite meaning and is utterly void of innuendo. We stand 100 per cent for the students, for the upbuilding of our great institution and will fight tyranny and special privilege to the last ditch. We say what we think regardless of circumstances or consequences. We have no use for the "kept" press.—Editorial.

Announcement

There will be no poem in the Salvage department this week. Mr. Swearwell, who writes all of our poetry, is slightly indisposed as a result of the football game Friday afternoon and the informal Saturday night. However, within a very short while we hope to be favored with some more of his delightful free verse.—O. G. Whizz.

Exclusive Announcement

Girls of Senior Hall who "didn't have somebody as their guest for the informal Saturday night" will please sign on the dotted lines below:

Thank you!

Dancing Regulations

We regret that the dean "beat us to it" in giving instructions for the informal dance, but we are offering herewith suggestions to be followed at the formal next month:

1. Face your partner. Grab her right mitt with your left. Put your right arm around her waist as far as you dare and be ready to go when the whistle blows.
2. Insist that a white line be drawn down her back, running at a right angle to a line connecting her ears. In this way you will be able to tell when you are off side.
3. If you are a tall guy see that your partner does not get her arm around your neck. Reaching like that will interfere with her dancing—and with yours, too.
4. Keep plenty of space between you. You are more likely to get invited again.
5. When in doubt fall out and get some advice from Daisy Talksom. She will represent the Journal at all dances hereafter.

Rules of Conduct—No. 4

Be sure to cut across the campus in a direct line from the Training school to the entrance at the pillars. The administration is greatly worried because the path there is being developed so slowly.

Today's Thought

Leave your high school pins with your mother. She thinks more of them than do your schoolmates.

M'ss Talksom's Reply

Dear Perplexed: I am rather surprised that a girl of your age and intelligence should spend the time you do on so many foolish things. In the first place, you came to the Cheney normal to get a certificate in the shortest time possible and with the least effort, not to get engaged. Wishing that more boys were here, therefore, is a hopeless waste of time. You should also limit your correspondence to not more than three boys outside of Cheney. Writing to so many is not considered good form.

Standing in front of the bulletin board, trying to make dates, writing to men not in school and dancing with boys at play hour—these are very largely a waste of time. Thinking about getting married is a very pleasant pastime, to be sure, but rest assured that it will never get you through Tiejie's or Wilson's English classes. Both of them are married.

You are not spending enough time in the dean's office. I would suggest that each girl in school ought to plan to spend about one hour each week in consultation with the dean of women. Your practice of attending all free movies is to be commended.

If you will follow the advice given above, it will not be necessary for you to go to the post office so often. But, when you do go, be sure to take a bodyguard and always walk eight or nine abreast. I am glad to hear that you are cultivating that practice. It is a pleasure to the citizens of Cheney to write away and say that the sidewalks are so crowded that it is necessary for them to walk in the streets. The Cheney Commercial club ought to give you a prize for advertising the town.

Change your schedule in conformity with the foregoing suggestions and you will perhaps be able to squeeze out an elementary in June.

Very truly yours,
—Daisy Talksom

Wants Some Advice

Dear Miss Talksom: I am engaged to a boy back home. Since I came to the Cheney normal, however, one of the boys here has been showing marked attentions to me. Should I ignore him? If I do, some other girl is sure to pick him up. I was never so distressed before in all my life.

Yours truly,
—Parilla Daylight

Jimmie's Letter

Dear Miss Spaeth: Well, I'm back home again and I sure want to thank you and at the same time to congratulate you on the high class dance that was pulled off down at the Cheney normal Saturday night. It was ever bit as good as anything we got away with last year and the number of boys that was there was enough to make a fellow feel pretty good because last year you know there was too many girls and not enough boys. I never would of believed that so many girls could of got so many fellows together like that but they did it all right because I seen them.

Now dont you think the girl that I had along with me had it all over a lot of them that was present. Well, in the first place you no doubt noticed that when she was dancing with me she made no effort to get off side and didnt try any strangle holds or rough stuff like that and when she was dancing with some of the others I was watching her pretty close too. If you could just be looking everywhere all the time youd be surprised to see the way a lot of them dance and thats why I suppose you miss me a whole lot this year because it sure is a big job to be dean when a dance like the informal is being pulled off.

I heard while I was down at the Cheney normal that theres going to be an annual published there this year and I want to have my name put down for one and for you to keep it until I come back to summer school next year. Ive always advocated things like the annual that would put the Cheney normal on the map and make all the other schools stand up and take notice and it takes money and school spirit and a lot of work to do it.

Well, you be sure and send me a notice in time to come to the formal and maybe I can think of some good suggestions that will help you to make it a big success. Im still willing to cooperate even though I am out in the field.

Yours truly,
—Jimmaie

MONROE HALL

The Monroe Hall masquerade party, given in honor of the Senior Hall girls, was well attended by a variety of mysterious characters, from the Hula Hula girls, clowns and witch to the quaint little old-fashioned girl. Four mysterious "men" created much of the excitement and amusement of the evening. They proved to be Ruby Woody, Ruth Johnson, Effie Johnson and Martha Weigelt. A short program furnished part of the evening's entertainment. It included: A pianologue, Luella Faulkner; vocal solo, Claire Dawes; whistling solo, Velma Grass, and a comedy skit, "The Minister's Wife." Those taking part in the skit were Kathleen Riley, Elizabeth Grieve, Wilma Maycumber, Rosamond Matteson, Garnett Mc-

Gowan and Myrtle Sheets. Music for dancing was furnished by Katherine Smith and Luella Faulkner. Dean Spaeth, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Nettie Goodman and Miss Edith Patterson were masked cleverly and caused much surprise when time came for unmasking.

Apples, wafers and ice cream were served for refreshments.

Miss Kathleen Riley and Elizabeth Grieve had as their guests over Saturday Margaret Riley, Blanche Rundberg, Carrie Haynes and Louise Grieve, all of Spokane.

Miss Ida Mae Flagler was the guest of Miss Ina Wilson over the week-end.

Miss Antoinette Dustin and Miss Virginia Dickinson were entertained at dinner Thursday evening, October 26, by Vera Thornley, Olive Foley, Louise Bump and Edith Walker.

Annual Is Not Innovation

The proposed annual for the Normal school, for which the Journal has been seeking a name, will not be the first publication of the sort ever attempted by the student body. Annuals have been published in the past under at least two different names. Copies of the Rhododendron from 1903 to 1907 are on file in the library. When that publication was discontinued the student body had no paper or magazine until the fall of 1911, when Kinnikinick was started as a monthly. In 1916, when the Journal was started as a weekly newspaper, Kinnikinick was continued as a quarterly. Later it was changed to an annual, but during the war was dropped altogether.

APACHE CLUB

The paddle was much in evidence this week. Assistant Cop Blauert has taken a hand in the game and even swatted his superior, Bolstad. Harold Phelps, of course, holds the record for the most spats received.

Amid all the joy of the informal there needs must be some sorrow. Two Apaches lost their dates a couple

NORMAL LOST FIRST CONFERENCE GAME

Failure to Kick Goal After Touchdown Caused Defeat of Normal Boys Friday Afternoon.

Normal 0; Idaho Frosh 44
Normal 0; W. S. C. Frosh 81
Normal 6; Spokane College 7

One point, a goal kicked by Spokane college after a touchdown in the opening quarter, cost the Normal team its first conference game Friday afternoon. The final score was 7 to 6 in favor of Spokane college.

No scoring was done by either team after the first quarter. The Normal made the first touchdown, but failed to kick goal. Shortly after the Normal scored Spokane college made a touchdown and kicked goal.

Throughout the first two quarters the Spokane team kept the Normal boys on the defensive. At the opening of the second half, however, the Normal team took a spurt and nearly scored on several occasions, but the Spokane team always held.

MARGARET STAHL, FAMOUS DRAMATIC INTERPRETER, APPEARS HERE SOON

Margaret Stahl is one of the few really great interpreters of plays now before the American public. She is an artist of impelling force and big emotional vision and with an ability to retell a literary story or play with exceptional winsomeness and personal charm. She is undoubtedly one of the best known readers of the East and is looked upon by managers and committees alike as a dramatic reader of wonderful abilities. This community is fortunate in having Miss Stahl on its lyceum course this season. Everywhere her appearance is regarded as a red-letter event.

VALUABLE RELICS FOR "SILAS MARNER"

Valuable Antiques Used in Giving "Perfect Atmosphere of Old England" in "Silas Marner."

Everyone seeing "Silas Marner," as interpreted on the screen by Frank P. Donovan, for Associated Exhibitors, will naturally wonder where some of the antiques came from and just how such a perfect atmosphere of "Old England" of the time of George Eliot's classic story was obtained.

The linen weaving loom used by Silas Marner, and at which he earned, with his beautiful weaving, the gold pieces that he hoarded, is the only real, authentic loom of its kind in the United States. It was borrowed by Mr. Donovan, and insured for $25,000, from the City Island Museum, which is privately owned.

The baby crib used for little Eppie, the waif whose mother dies at Marner's door, was brought to this country by English settlers, and many babies were rocked to sleep in it before it reached the Brooklyn museum, from which place it was borrowed for "Silas Marner."
